Jilin University is a leading national research university under the direct jurisdiction of China's Ministry of Education. Located in Changchun, the capital city of Jilin Province in Northeast China, the university has seven campuses in six districts which are home to thirty-nine colleges covering thirteen academic disciplines, including philosophy, international relations, economics, law, literature, education, history, science, engineering, agriculture, medicine, management, and military science. The University has thirteen disciplinary areas, six national key laboratories, and seven national bases for the development of basic science. Other resources include five research bases for humanities and social sciences, eleven key laboratories sponsored by the Ministry of Education and eleven by other ministries of Chinese government.
There are more than fifty multimedia classrooms and language learning audiovisual classrooms. Special attention has been paid to the construction of 20 basic science laboratories. The university library claims a collection of 5.26 million books and is designated as the library of United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) and World Bank. It also serves as the Comprehensive Information Center of Liberal Arts of the Education Ministry, the only Foreign Scientific Text Book Center in Northeast China, and the National Humanities and Social Science Higher Education Books Import Center. It is one of the seven centres of China Academic Library and Information System (CALIS) Center in Northeast China.

Several campuses have gymnasiums, stadiums, and arenas for basketball, volleyball, table tennis and artistic gymnastics. The Nanling Campus Stadium, which has a grass soccer field surrounded by standard synthetic racetracks, has 10,000 seats. There are also tennis and basketball courts throughout the campus.

Jilin University has established ties with more than 130 universities, colleges, and research institutes in 40 countries/districts. Over 1,200 foreign students currently attend the university.
Jilin University library began as the Library of Northeast Public Administration Institute in 1946. It merged with Harbin University library in 1948. In 1952, it was renamed as the Northeast People’s University library. Then in 1958, it was called Jilin University Library. In June 2000, authorized by the Ministry of Education, the new Jilin University was founded on the basis of the former Jilin University, Jilin University of Technology, Norman Bethune Medical University, Chang Chun University of Science and Technology and Chang Chun Telegraph Institute. Subsequently, the libraries of the five universities merged into Jilin University library, five branches included: the Central library, the Technology library, the Medical library, the Geosciences’ library and the Information library.
Our university network was first founded in the year 1995. In June, 2000, after the setting up of the new Jilin University, the networks of the original five campuses was integrated, interlinked, upgraded and further constructed; at present our university network has the widest coverage in the whole country.

Our university network had a tree structure with many levels and it is distributed into the five campuses, namely the Qianwei Campus, the Northern Campus, the Nanling Campus, the Xinmin Campus, the Chaoyang Campus and the Nanhu Campus. The five regional networks are linked by optical fiber and together they form the backbone of our university network. This backbone network connects together all the computers on the five campuses and makes our network of a city level.
Jilin University owns five halls of residence for international students on its campuses, such as the Friendship Hall, all of which have nice and quiet surroundings with strong academic atmosphere. In the Friendship Hall, your options include single or double rooms furnished with necessary facilities such as bed, bookshelf, chair, desk, showerhead, satellite-TV, telephone, and the Internet. Each floor in the hall also provides public facilities such as kitchen and washing-machine (insert coins to operate). In some residential areas, there are gym and business centre, besides, food and laundry services are provided.
If you would like to try the food service, each hall of residence has its dining hall where different types of flavors are presented to cater for your tastes. Moreover, other dining halls for university students in each campus will also be able to serve you with delicious food. If you would like to cook by yourself, there are public kitchens available in each hall of residence. At the same time, you will be pleased to discover that there are grocery stores and shops nearby. There you can buy all types of things you need for cooking with cheap prices and great variety. Dining outside enables you to enjoy the famous dish in each Chinese cuisine. Meanwhile, you can find restaurants with European, or Japanese, or Korean flavors in the city. You can easily locate KFC, McDonald's, and Pizza Hut for sure.
SHOPPING

There are shops, and supermarkets nearby our campus. The Wal-Mart (Sam's Club) is close to the Qianwei Campus of Jilin University, which makes it convenient to purchase articles for daily use.

Cash is still the major means of payment in China. Credit card has not been popularized; therefore, please be noted that you need to always carry cash with you. The Chinese exchange rate policy is to link up the value of RMB with that of US dollars. The exchange rate is fairly stable, that is, one US dollar can be converted into 6.78RMB. Moreover, only RMB is allowed to use within China.
